

FALSE ECONOMY.

Economy in all matters pertaining to government affairs has been a cardinal plank in the platform of all parties for many years, but just what is meant by economy, in this direction has never been clearly defined. The press generally, precinct statesman and stump orators, always shout lustily for economy and reform, while not one in a thousand can tell in what particular instance economy should be practiced. Honesty, and not economy, is the word; for as long as the funds of the nation are honestly and economically expended there can hardly be such a thing as extravagance. An individual may be extravagant in the use of the funds at his command, but not so with the government. A course pursued by the government, which may sometimes seem extravagant, is really the economical one. The statesmen who manage the affairs of France realize this fact, and for thousands of years her people have spent millions of dollars annually in beautifying and strengthening their beautiful country. The population of France is less than that of the United States, and her territory is only a little greater than that of California; and yet her annual expenses are more than double that of the United States, and we think our government extravagant. It is this sort of extravagant economy that makes the French people prosperous and happy. While it makes available in its most perfect form every resource of France, it keeps the poor employed; and so, the property of the rich is taxed to give the poor a chance to earn bread. France long since found out that it is cheaper to pay the poor for work that they may carry food, than to have them either beg or steal that food. As the Lord lives, the thing most needed in the United States to-day is the furnishing of work to the poor. It is the business of the nation to see this is done. Idleness alone breeds crime, but when want is wedded to idleness, the results are liable to be monstrous. No nation on earth can stand, much less prosper, that maintains within its borders an army of more than two hundred thousand willing hands in forced idleness.

WHAT THE RETURNS SHOW.

Under this head the Silver State publishes official returns from several counties, which gives a fair index to how the result will appear when the returns are all in. They show conclusively, says that paper, that senatizing was practiced to an almost unprecedented extent by the free and enlightened citizens of Nevada. Washoe appears to be the only county in the State that gave Strother a majority, and even there several Democrats were elected on the county ticket. Storey county gave Powning 30 majority, and Ormsby gave him six majority, yet on the Comstock Adams received 123 majority, and Ormsby, which has hitherto been considered the Gibraltar of Republicanism in Nevada, gave Adams 24 majority. Elko county, which gave Cassidy 408 majority, and Adams 135 majority, gave Leonard, Republican, 15 majority, and Bigelow, Republican, 481 majority, and elected nearly the whole Republican county ticket. Enreka county gave Cassidy 326 majority, and Adams 265, though Loughton and Leonard, Republicans, carried the county by 176 and 109, respectively. Nye county gave Adams 95 majority, Cassidy 194, and Leonard, Republican, 11. The strongest Republican counties elected Democrats to the principal county offices, while Democratic counties reversed the rule by electing Republicans to county offices, and in many instances to the Legislature. It will puzzle the shrewdest politicians to determine from the returns whether Nevada is Democratic or Republican, notwithstanding the fact that the two principal officers, the Governor and Congressmen, are Democrats. Party lines were ignored to a greater extent than ever before, and almost every elector used his pencil more or less on election day.

BE ON TIME.

Two years ago the votes of two counties for President were thrown out because the clerks of those counties failed to forward the statement of the same to the Secretary of State at Carson within the time prescribed by law. It is well for County Clerks to keep in mind the following provision of the statute on elections in order that all the votes cast may be duly counted at the Capitol of the State.

Sec. 32. The Board of County Commissioners, after making the abstract of votes as provided in section thirty, shall cause their Clerk to make a copy of said abstract and transmit the same, by mail or express or special messenger, to the Secretary of State at the seat of government; and on the third Monday in December succeeding such election, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and the Associate Justices, or a majority thereof, shall meet at the office of the Secretary of State and shall open and canvass the vote for member of Congress, district and State officers; and the Governor shall grant a certificate of election to and commission the persons having the highest number of votes, and shall also issue proclamation declaring the election of such persons.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS.

A hard time, we fear, is in store for the men who have just been elected to our next Legislature. More will be expected of them than is in the power of human beings to accomplish, and when they fail to do in a few weeks or months what must be the slow growth of years, the blame heaped upon them will be as unjust as the present expectations are extravagant and unreasonable.

The Earth's Sister.

Venus is becoming more and more brilliant as the evening star, throwing her fiery neighbor, Mars, completely in the shade. In the telescope she now resembles the moon when it was a little past half full. She is now gradually growing fainter and will soon appear as a thin crescent, a silver bow, and disappear as a star to reappear on the 6th of December as a black dot on the sun. At that time she will have to face such a bristling array of telescopes as was probably never before turned upon any celestial body. Everybody will want to have at least one good look at Venus upon the sun's disc, for all the world will be talking about it, and neither we of this generation nor our children and but few of our grandchildren will behold another transit of Venus, for the next will not occur until the year 2,001.

Arraigned in Court

Josiah V. Smith, the man who was inspired to kill his fourteen-year-old son, was arraigned before the Superior Court at Los Angeles, Thursday. The Clerk read the complaint to him, and when he was asked what plea he desired to make, he replied that the paper was all right; that the Lord had inspired him to commit the deed, and that was all he had to say. Judge Hines then ordered the clerk to enter the plea of not guilty, and appointed counsel to represent Smith in the trial, which has not yet been set. The murderer seemed to be totally indifferent, both as to the deed and his possible fate.

The Railroad Tax Case Before the United States Supreme Court.

The important tax case of the county of San Mateo against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, which the United States Supreme Court consented on Monday last to advance, providing counsel could agree on a date not later than December, has been set for argument December 19th. The question involved in this case, which is regarded by the Justices of this court as one of the most important ever brought before them, is of the nature and extent of the limitation of State taxation by the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution.

A California Enterprise.

The first lot of tacks ever made in California have been turned out by the Judson Manufacturing Company at their works recently erected at Emery Station, near Oakland. The manufacture of this useful article will now continue at the rate of about a ton a day. Over 150 men are now at the buildings, and 300 workmen will be employed when the different manufactories are in full operation. Files and other hardware will also be made. The iron used is mined in the State, and the industry just begun is to be praised as both enterprising and commendable.

A good story comes from Limerick. Two years ago Miss Ellard, the owner of a fine estate at Newbellard, Oola, was fired at, but, fortunately, both she and her coachman escaped the bullets of the assassin. Shortly afterwards police protection was afforded Miss Ellard, two constables being drawn for that purpose from the New Palms station. One of them, named Shoohey, a fine young fellow, acquitted himself so well that Miss Ellard resolved to render him protection a permanent duty. The sub-constable is now the husband of a beautiful wife, and a landed proprietor, with an income of some £10,000 a year. The happy pair are at present in London, spending the honeymoon.

A favorite sport in Brazil and the West Indies consists in hunting humming birds. The natives arm themselves with blow-guns made of reeds, perhaps only fourteen or fifteen inches long, and take pellets of cotton wool; with these they aim and so stun the little creatures that they fall an easy prey to their pursuers, and the beautiful plumage is uninjured. Travelers in countries where the humming-bird abounds form themselves into parties for this sport, and use common table salt as shot. Penetrating the skin, and yet not injuring the plumage, such a charge kills the bird, and great numbers are secured in this manner.

Senator Jones and National Finances.

[S. F. Post.]

Senator John P. Jones has been interviewed at Chicago in reference to the existing policy of extinguishing the national debt. His views upon national finance are always entitled to respect, because no other public man in the country has given the subject of currency and exchange so thorough and careful a study. Senator Jones is of opinion that the present financial policy is a sound one; that it releases money, which finds investment in railroads and other reproductive works; that the conversion of the funded debt into bonds bearing a low rate of interest is favorable to labor and production; and that the taxation of the country does not, in reality, press heavily upon any one. These are the leading ideas in the interview referred to, and they embody the opinions of a large number of economists as well.

The Post, having long since accepted the pay-as-you-go policy in deference to the popular theory, has no objection now to offer to any plan which will aid in accomplishing that result with the greatest celerity and the least possible cost to the taxpayers. But it nevertheless holds firmly to the conviction that public securities are as much a necessity of settled government, among a commercial people, as are the legislative and judiciary branches. There are vast sums of trust money under the control of the courts, for example, which cannot be safely invested in any other securities than government bonds, not to speak of corporate and private trusts, and it will be absolutely necessary to devise some other permanent securities for their investment if the national debt is to be absolutely extinguished. We are not, however, now arguing against the position which Senator Jones takes in referring to the payment of the public debt. It is in the line of settled policy, and there let it rest; but we deem it right to hint, that outside the question as to whether the present generation should be specially taxed for the relief of posterity, who may not appreciate our self-sacrifice, there are social considerations which should not be ignored when determining the future of the public debt.

We are in entire accord with Senator Jones on the question of specific taxation and have given expression to similar thoughts with himself upon this branch of the subject. It would be most impolitic to reduce taxes for the sole purpose of lessening the ability of the country to pay off its debt, as was attempted by the whisky, bank and tobacco lobby last session; and we further agree with the senator from Nevada in his remark that "public judgment, based upon morals as well as upon economic grounds, clearly is, that the taxes on whisky, beer and tobacco should be kept at such a point as will yield a maximum revenue." Bearing this constantly in mind, and keeping Congress from the overmastering influence of these great moneyed interests, the country can give its time for a careful and thorough revision of the tariff, so as to guard against any injury being done to established industries, sweeping tariff changes would be quite as injurious as continued adherence to the present schedule. This point is clearly apprehended by Senator Jones, who expresses himself in reticence thereto with his proverbial terseness and vigor.

A Reno Death and Mutilation Trap.

Some time ago the JOURNAL called attention to the various water boxes standing uncovered in the streets, any one of which was liable to break the leg of a belated citizen and maul the township in damages. The most dangerous one lies at the intersection of the cross street between the soap factory and Laycock's. It is directly in the path of pedestrians on their way to and fro on the bridge and in the middle of the intersecting street. Since the last article in the JOURNAL, a few stones have been piled above the mouth of the box as a sort of cover, under the impression apparently that it is sufficient for the Renoites anyway. Yet that has been hitherto the only cover of the hole. As a result, a couple of weeks ago, a team traveling over the street scattered the protecting rocks right and left, fortunately causing one to lodge about two feet down in the box. About an hour afterwards a prominent citizen and employee of the Lake House, on his way home in company with a southsider, came near breaking his leg. The night was dark and while picking his way, one leg suddenly descended into a miniature Comstock shaft. The couple were going at a rapid rate, and had it not been that the stone had lodged in the hole, a broken leg would have been the result.

A SECOND INSTANCE.

Day before yesterday a large band of sheep was being driven through town on their way southward. One of the herders mounted on horseback, started after a lot of straying sheep and was just turning the corner of a street in the Western Addition, when one of the unfortunate horse's feet plunged three feet downward into one of these open boxes lying as usual in or near the middle of the street. The animal with a mighty effort extricated himself, and in order to regain his equilibrium gave three tremendous bounds, when he stumbled against something and fell prone to the ground, breaking his neck in the fall and severely injuring the rider. Quite a number of sheep escaped and many more would have got away but for the timely help offered by another sheep man who happened along. It is understood that suit has been commenced by the sheep men against both the water company and the township. Before long, during the course of the coming trial, the truth in the case whereby Reno citizens have been endangered of life and limb, will be ascertained and the gross neglect paid for—only the sweet public as a general rule, being bled.

THE CONDITIONS OF SOCIETY.

While a poor man, whose leg might be broken through the criminal carelessness of either the city, or the water, or gas works, might seek for years to obtain satisfaction, and all without effect, how long would it be before a rich man would obtain a heavy verdict for damages, and for far less injuries? The JOURNAL sincerely hopes that the blame of this flagrant condition of both streets, water exits and sidewalks will be saddled on those to whom the blame properly belongs. Hitherto whenever this question was raised in regard to the open boxes in the middle of Reno's thoroughfares, the invariable answer has been made by the township representatives, "Oh, that hole in the street belongs to the water company. They are responsible for it; they must attend to it." When the water company was interviewed, they retaliated on the town, and claimed that the town of Reno should look after these death-traps in the public streets. As usual, the unfortunate Renoites, between the two fires, are the sufferers, and while the city and water corporation are arguing with each other, men, women and children are liable to suffer from the condition of affairs. Cannot the people of Reno correct this?

"Mirror of Ireland."

Prof. Baker, the well-known Irish tenor, will give one of his very excellent entertainments at Reform Club Hall next Monday evening, Nov. 20. An exchange says: "On hearing Mr. Baker render some of Moore's exquisitely beautiful melodies we, like many others, were literally astonished at the mastery genius he displayed in each of these recitals. The singing was only excelled by the beauty, pathos, and super-excellence of the writings of the poet whose compositions he rendered. In relation with Mr. Baker's entertainment, the only thing we have to regret is that his 'genius' as a musician is not more generally known so that the public might attend in large numbers, and thereby share in the enjoyment of an entertainment, the like of which, rarely comes within the grasp of rural communities."

The Prof. is sure to have a crowded house and all who miss hearing him will miss a treat. He leaves for the East on Tuesday morning. Admission 50 cents.

There will be services at the Congregational Church at 11 o'clock a. m. and 7 o'clock p. m. Subject of evening: The Power of Self-interest. Sunday School at 12:15. Welcome to all.
A. B. PALMER, Pastor.

No Damages.

The suit of Michael Clancy against the Union Consolidated Mining Company for $25,000 damages for injuries received in December, 1878, through being hoisted up into the sheaves, which has occupied the United States Circuit Court for two or three days, was Friday morning decided in favor of the defendant by the verdict of a jury. Clancy sued for a sum equal to $4 per day, with interest, from the time of the accident. What the plaintiff founded his case upon was the fact that the indicator was out of order and the engineer was running by tags fastened upon the cable when the accident occurred. The defense showed that the shaft had been sunk to nearly its full depth by tags on the cable, and that the only advantage derived from the use of the indicator was that it allowed the engineer to lower and hoist at greater speed. The majority of the shafts on the Comstock were sunk without the use of the present dial indicator.

Lights o' London.

Judging from the lengthy and flattering review of this play in the Enterprise a genuine theatrical treat is in store for our people on Wednesday evening next. Note what the Portland (Oregon) Standard has to say of the company: "The Palmer Dramatic Company closed the first week of their engagement last night to a crowded house. The Lights o' London has proved a grand success, the week's receipts being the largest ever known in the history of the New Market Theater. Mr. Crisner has sustained the favorable impression he created during his previous visit, and the company throughout have acquitted themselves with credit and to the entire satisfaction of our theater going citizens."

Mongolians Vanishing.

The Chinese population, under pressure of the law restricting Chinese immigration, is decreasing. Since the law went into effect, three months ago, 3,680 more have gone to China than have come this way. The figures for three months are: Departures, 3,849; arrivals, 109. The arrivals from China and Japan last month were only 73, against 973 in October of last year. At the end of ten years, should this average of decrease continue, 147,200 Chinese will have gone, and the number remaining will hardly be noticed.

Successful Experiment

Last season R. S. Flournoy, a farmer in Genesee Valley, Plumas county, tried the experiment of raising potatoes without irrigation. A few days ago eight potatoes were picked up from a pile and were found to weigh just twenty pounds. These are not at all remarkable for size, of course, but are deserving of notice for fine quality and abundant yield. There is not a hollow one in the entire crop, and they cook through like a loaf.

Too Particular.

A dispatch from New Orleans says that J. H. Aeklin, independent candidate for Congress in the Third District, has started out to contest the seat with William Pitt Kellogg, on the ground that Kellogg is a non-resident. A racket of that kind might be seriously considered in an old State like Louisiana, but it wouldn't work in this country. Such a proposition would hardly receive a moment's attention in Nevada.

Changed Hands.

Walter L. Marsden, of the Ruby Hill Mining News, has leased the Eureka Leader from its proprietors, and will conduct the business and editorial interests of the paper. Mr. Marsden is an experienced newspaper man and under his management the Leader is sure to prosper. We wish the new management success.

Look at This Freight Schedule.

The Carson Appeal says: Vic Muller has just received a consignment of whisky from Louisville, Ky. It cost $6 from Louisville to New York, $10 by vessel around Cape Horn, and $13 from San Francisco to Carson. Such figures as these are substantiated by the way-bills, which can be seen at Mr. Muller's saloon.

The Fire at the Gas Works.

Yesterday afternoon a huge column of smoke and flame arising from the rear of the Reno Gas Co.'s works betokened a raging conflagration in that vicinity. The heavy black volumes of tarry smoke so overloaded the atmosphere that no one knew the origin or extent of the fire. The cause of the conflagration was simple enough and should certainly be avoided in the future. The refuse tar is conveyed from the retorts to the rear of the works where it is boiled in a wooden boiler. From this improvised retort the purified product flows into ground reservoirs, whence it is dipped out and canned to be sold in the market. From some cause the tar in the wooden boiler became overheated, and taking fire, blazed up with a fierce flame and smoke. Fortunately the workmen and helping neighbors succeeded in extinguishing the flames with the aid of sand and dirt before the main building caught fire. The smoke and flames of the burning vat caused a large assembly of neighbors to congregate, all of whom were unanimous in the wish that the tar vat and furnace be removed to a safer place. Although on the bank of the river, it is also alongside of a town ditch and liable to spread destruction through floating flame at any moment.

Excitement Among Reno Sports.

A dispatch of the 17th says: "A day or two ago the brown mare Manetta, hooked double to a road wagon, with the running horse Longman, trotted two miles in the extraordinary time of 4:27 1/4. The first mile in 2:14 1/4, and the second in 2:12 3/4. The mare did not wear breechings, and therefore, outside of his taking the major part of the weight, she received no assistance from Longman. The track was a trifle dull and slippery. The two miles are the fastest ever trotted." This atom of telegraphic news has stirred to its center the racing fraternity of Reno; and one good result to be looked for, is the enhanced standard of racing contests in the next year's Fair.

Our Next Legislature.

For the information of some who are under a wrong impression as to the time for the next Legislature to meet at Carson, we will again state that it was the intention to have the time of meeting changed to the first Monday in February. Owing, however, to the failure of the last Legislature to provide for a vote of the people at the recent general election on the amendment of the Constitution as to the time of the regular meeting of the Legislature, the next meeting will have to be on the first Monday in January, as heretofore.

The Aurora.

Our fellow countrymen east of the Rock Mountains haven't an absolute monopoly of the Aurora Borealis. That electric wonder loomed up in the northern heavens night before last, and last evening equal to the display of which our eastern neighbors are boasting. The Enterprise says the display was mistaken by many Comstockers for an immense conflagration in Reno.

Released.

The bondsmen of Carrick the defaulting Treasurer of Storey county, who was liberated from the State Prison a few days ago, have been released by the Commissioners of that county. Their offer of $1,000 to settle the matter was accepted.

Mother's Mothers!! Mothers!!!
Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer at once—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold every where. 25 cents a bottle. Jan 15-19-80 F&W

Now is Your Chance.

Miss M. A. Harney is selling out her entire stock at reduced rates. She accordingly invites all the ladies to come and examine her stock and assures them they may obtain all millinery and fancy goods at a great bargain, as she must dispose of her present stock.

The ladies all think the Royal Sewing Machines for sale by Osburn & Shoemaker are just perfection. They turn either way and sew straight along—run easy and noiseless. Go and see them by all means.
